A. Sign Provisions Discussion Continued

The Planning Board continued their review and discussion of proposed sign amendments. It was noted that one of the challenges of developing district based sign provisions was the current configuration of the districts.

District boundaries are proving to be problematic when establishing signage covering a diversity of uses. For example, it is difficult to allow proper signage to commercial uses that are located in a district that is predominately residential. Signage provisions cover the district as a whole, not the use in particular.

The discussions posed the question as to whether a reconfiguration of the district boundaries would be beneficial to not only signage provisions but other provisions which impact commercial and residential uses being very different.

The Planning Board will continue their review at the next scheduled meeting on June 21, 2017.
